

2010 Chevrolet Camaro SS

Sunday, 17 May 2009

Remember when the Transformers series showcased the Camaro? I'm sure many would definitely like an out of space alien robot turning into a cool Camaro sports car anytime they want.

Apparently, there's an all new 2010 Chevrolet Camaro SS that's ready to be rolled out into the market. This particular Camaro comes with 600 horsepower from its SS 6.2-liter V8 engine. On the other hand, it also comes with two rear-mounted GTK350 turbos, intercooler, cat-back exhaust and 21-inch wheels for the front while the back uses 22-inch instead.

The price tag to own one of these Artisan SA-600s? It's $69,000.
